

open time

open source

ARA

STM32-based Ara (The Altar) is a compact open-source watch designed without an external casing. It runs on a low-power STM32 microcontroller, allowing efficient performance with minimal power consumption. This makes the device highly sustainable, practical, and feasible for long-term everyday use.

designed by cookie! a 15 year old from india